Mary Ellen Hughes Testifies Mother
Gave Her Money Each Week to

BACKS MOTHER'S EVIDENCE

Defendant in Embezzlement Case in Circuit Court on Witness Stand
Most of the Day

Mary Ellen Hughes, the defendant in the case charging her with embezzlement of funds from the F. B. Johnson and Company drug store, went on the witness stand in circuit court this morning in self defense and occupied the stand all morning, and for some time this afternoon.

With the defendant taking the stand, it signifies that the case has about been presented, and only a few more witnesses were to be heard this afternoon. The state was preparing to introduce the grand jurors, who returned the indictment against Miss Hughes, as witness in rebuttal to testimony furnished by some of the defense witnesses.

Miss Hughes left the stand at two o'clock this afternoon, but several other witnesses were to be used. There was some doubt as to whether the evidence would be finished today, but even if the last witness testified today, it was certain that the arguments would not be concluded until some time Tuesday.

Miss Hughes was called first to the stand this morning when court convened, and after a few preliminary questions, she stated that she was 23 years old, and had graduated from the local high school in 1919, and since that time had been employed in local stores, including the drug firm of F. B. Johnson and Company.

During the time covered by the indictment, Miss Hughes stated that she was employed at Johnson's store the drug store, and her friends and when she was off duty at 7 o'clock and on Sundays she was employed as an extra clerk in Caron's Candy store, where she earned $1 a night, and $2 for Sunday work.

She told in detail the routine of work which she carried on at the drug store, and the manner in which the books were kept, and also the system used in banking and handling of accounts at the store, with which she was entrusted.

She stated that her mother gave her weekly amounts of money to be deposited in the bank, and that the money was placed to the credit of the defendant. She stated that she did not keep any record of the amount of money given by her mother, other than the combined totals banked each week.

In speaking of money given to her, and which was banked, she stated that Walter Hubbard had given her $20 for Christmas in 1921 and $10 for Christmas in 1920, and that her grandfather had given her $5 for Christmas in 1921.

STEERS HER CAR INTO POLE

Miss Henrietta Coleman Thus Avoids
Collision With Another Machine

A coupe belonging to Miss Henrietta Coleman of this city was badly damaged at Alabama and 25th street in Indianapolis Sunday when Miss Coleman, who was driving, had to steer the machine into a telephone pole to avoid a collision with another machine.

Miss Coleman's machine sideswiped the other car, which was driven by P. W. McCones, ran up over the curb and broke the pole in two places.

Miss Coleman was unhurt, but Mrs. John H. Kiplinger, who was riding with her, suffered a severe scalp wound, by being thrown against the front of the machine as the result of the impact with the pole. The driver of the other machine is said to have been on the wrong side of the street, causing the accident. Two other women in the machine were unhurt.

DOVE OF PEACE IS BACK ON THE JOB

Joe Williamson, Chief of Fire Department, Reconsiders And Will Not Leave Position

FIREMAN BROWN LEAVES

Resignation of Three Due to Order
For Firemen to Wear Uniforms
—Standard Wage Likely

The dove of peace is again chirping on the threshold of the fire station, following a recent discord in the ranks, when the councilmen decided that the firemen should wear uniforms during the greater portion of the day time.

Fire Chief Joe Williamson, who headed the dissenting delegation that contended their salaries were not large enough to buy uniforms, and who sent in his resignation last week, has reconsidered the matter, and will stick with the colors—and incidentally has placed his order for a uniform.

Newell Finney, driver of the chemical engine, and James Brown, an assistant driver on the motor pumper, also resigned along with Chief Williamson, and Brown made good his intentions when he quit Saturday night.

The members of the council have a plan on foot in which a wage scale will be adopted at the next meeting of the council, and for this reason, it is believed that all future discord will be erased, and the firemen will have a standard upon which to work.

Richard Davis, age 32, a farmer, and World War veteran, has been hired for the position made vacant by Jim Brown. Mr. Davis has had considerable experience in handling machines, and the councilmen believe that he will make a good man at the station.

Mr. Brown, who had been on the department for several months, was a capable man, but was considering leaving the employment on account of the confinement, and had frequently talked about it.

The new wage scale has not been made public, but it is expected that the limit for firemen will be $100 a month, and that they can work their way up by "making good" at the job. New men will be started at less, and will be given gradual increases until the limit is reached.

LAST BILL OF THE SEASON APRIL 16

Members of Casts of Three One-Act Plays Work Hard For Final Offering of Little Theatre

LOCAL COACHES IN CHARGE

Accepted Position in Cincinnati
—Fine Progress Made

With only one week between them and the time for the last bill of the Little Theatre Society of Rushville, members of the casts of the three one-act plays, and the directors, alike, are putting forth their best efforts to make the final offering of the amateurs the best of the series produced during the season.

The final bill will be composed of "The Florist Shop," "The Bishop's Candlesticks," and "The Choir Rehearsal," and it will be presented at the Princess theatre next Monday evening, April 16, at eight o'clock.

The society has been handicapped in presenting the last bill on account of the absence of Raymond Gregg, the director, who accepted a position with the Stewart Walker Players at the Cox theatre in Cincinnati about a month ago.

Mr. Gregg, who was instrumental in organizing the society here last fall and who was the moving head of the organization, left just when preparations were being made to start rehearsals for the third and last bill of the season, for which tickets had been sold.

Denning Havens was unable to step into the void because he has been in Wabash coaching a high school senior class play, "The Charn School," but he is expected home this week to put the finishing touches on the local productions so that they will be ready when the curtain rises next Monday evening.

The coaching for the three one-act plays has been done entirely, thus far, by interested members of the society, who were thrown on their own resources, but who have made wonderful progress with rehearsals, it is said by those who have witnessed some of them.

"The Bishop's Candlesticks" is a short play founded upon an incident in Victor Hugo's "Les Miserables". It was written by Norman McKinnel and was produced in London by a professional caste in 1901 and again in 1907. The action takes place in a town near Paris in 1815, early in

Ship's Pilot Defies A Dare In Dream, Wins

Lieut. F. W. McKee Of Anderson
Safely Flies Over Soldiers And Sailors Monument With Largest Non-Rigid Dirigible In Army, After Premonition Of Danger

Indianapolis, Ind., April 9. — After a three hour stop at Fort Benjamin Harrison, the T. C. I., largest non-rigid dirigible in the United States army left at noon today on the second and last lap of its 500 miles flight from Akron, Ohio, to Belleville, Illinois. Lieut. F. W. McKee of Anderson, Indiana pilot of the ship, defied the dare of a dream last night, Lieut. McKee having dreamed the giant dirigible would crash into the Soldiers and Sailors' monument in Indianapolis. He swirled down to a low altitude as it passed over it this morning, but the dream failed to materialize.

Averaging about 48 miles an hour the ship made the trip from Akron, to Indianapolis in five hours and fifty minutes.

Landing was completed at 9:45 a. m. after several unsuccessful efforts. Several of the sixty men on the field helping to effect the landing, were swept from their feet when they grasped the ropes but none was hurt. The dirigible extending a city block in length, circled over the field several times in the attempt to land.

It had left Akron at 3:15 o'clock with the intentions of averaging 40 miles an hour on the 500 mile trip.

The T. C. I. is the first of three ships of the type to be built for the government by the Goodyear plant at Akron. It was designed to use either Helium or hydrogen gas. It is 195 feet long with a gas capacity of 200,000 cubic feet. The two 150 horse power engines have a maximum speed of 60 miles an hour with a cruising radius estimated at 1,630 miles.

Officers on the air ship said it can carry a 1,200 pound bomb.

ROAD EAST OF HERE IS PART OF STATE SYSTEM

Highway Commission Decides To Take Charge Of Highway Between
Here And Connersville

MARKS END OF LONG FIGHT

The road between Rushville and Connersville, by way of Glenwood, has been made a part of the state highway system, according to word which has been received here.

The decision of the state highway commission to take over the Rushville-Connersville road was reached after a long fight to have the road included in the state system. Connersville men have been more active in the movement because they were more directly interested, since they felt the need of a state highway leading directly to Indianapolis. Their best route in the past has been north on the state road to Cambridge City and thence west on the National Road.

Last year a petition to require Fayette county to pave the Connersville-Rushville road from Connersville city limits to the Fayette-Rush county line was killed by a remonstrance. At that time it was pointed out that the state commission might take over the road within a year or two and that the expenditure would be needless on the part of the county.

The road to be taken over by the State is one of the most expensive from the point of maintenance, county officials state. The traffic is practically the year round is unusually heavy and is not confined to local citizens. It is one of the direct routes from eastern Indiana to Indiana and county officials have it should be added to the state system. The stretch is about nine miles in length in Fayette county and an equal amount in Rush county.

KENTUCKIAN STILL IN JAIL

James O'Conner, Who Is Accused
Of Defrauding The Rev. L. E.
Brown, To Be Given Hearing

Frank Wallace, photographer, was arrested Saturday evening about 5 o'clock at his studio in West Second street, when officers conducted a raid, and reported the finding of a small amount of liquor. He was released in the circuit court on $1,000 bond, provided by O. C. Brann.

Later Saturday night, several members of the Company No. 190 of the Horse Thief Detective association, conducted a raid on a dwelling West Seventh street, and reported that one man was caught hiding a bottle of liquor, but he escaped. Arrest, however, is expected to be made.

The officers, including Sheriff Hunt, deputies Spradling, and Glenning and Patrolman Lakin, went to the Wallace studio with a search warrant and according to the officers Wallace turned out the lights in a small developing room, and started the water running into the sink so as to prevent the officers from hearing him empty the liquor into the sink.

Sheriff Hunt commanded him to turn on the light, and he stated that there was still a portion of liquor in a bottle that had not been poured out, while the water was running.

The liquor was confiscated, and also several empty bottles, according to the officers, and the charge was preferred against him.

Jack Pod Conn, the Kentuckian who was arrested at Carthage Friday on a charge of murder, is still being held today awaiting the officers. The sheriff of Rowan county was expected today.

Chief of Police Blackburn returned late Saturday from Indianapolis with James O'Conner, who is said to have defrauded the Rev. Mr. Brown. Prosecutor Ketchum has filed a charge of obtaining money under false pretense against him, and he will be given a hearing soon in police court.

The reign of Louis XVIII, after Napoleon's final banishment.

The characters are finely drawn. The Bishop is the practical idealist that Hugo makes him. The Convict, Jean Valjean, is also the desperate outcast of the early chapters in the novel.

Jean Valjean is recognized as one of the great figures in literature. The play presents the incident that led to his moral restoration. The modern dramatist has departed somewhat from Hugo's text in dealing with the other characters.

Persone, the Bishop's sister, is a blending of Mlle Baptistine and Mlle. Magloire. Marie, the humble little maid, is invented; the sergeant of gendarmes is the same astonished officer as in the novel.

The Little Theater is making an effort to give this little classic adequate presentation.

MRS. N. J. RUSSELL GIVES FACTS IN CASE

Declares Tanlac Ended Nervous, Run-down Condition, Restoring Perfect Health

Here is another instance—where gratitude to Tanlac will not be denied its natural expression in words of praise. Mrs. N. J. Russell, highly esteemed resident of 3150 Kenwood Ave., Indianapolis, Ind., recently said:

"I feel so indebted to Tanlac that I never miss a chance to praise it. When I began taking the medicine I was nervous, weak and underweight. My appetite was so poor I couldn't enjoy a thing, and what I did manage to eat made me feel so bad afterwards that I often regretted having eaten at all. I had terrible headaches, my sleep was restless, and I felt sick in so many ways I just didn't know what was the matter with me.

"But the Tanlac treatment has brought me back to health and happiness, and I feel like an entirely different person. Why, I just feel fine all the time, and I keep Tanlac in the house regularly now as our family medicine."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Take no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

Did Winter leave you with that tired feeling?

WINTER'S confinement, with its lack of pure air and sunshine, shows its effect in Spring. To be underweight, easily tired, listless, and have a poor appetite, indicates a weakened condition of the blood. Nature must have help—your blood is minus fighting strength! More red-cells mean cleaner, purer, richer blood. S. S. S. builds red-blood-cells. It builds blood-power! That is what makes fighting blood. Fighting blood destroys impurities. It

It fights boils. It fights skin eruptions! It always wins! It builds nerve-power, thinking power. It builds up run-down, tired men and women, beautiful complexions, and makes the flesh firmer. Stronger and more useful nerves depend on blood-power. S. S. S. will give you that greater endurance, energy and strength!

Mrs. Lizzie Palmer, Crowell, Texas, writes: "I was in a run-down condition. I had lost forty-four pounds in weight. Also, suffered from pimples and black heads. My druggist recommended S. S. S. It made me a new woman. I think S. S. S. to be the best medicine on earth."

Pirates Have Strong Team

By HENRY L. PARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, April 9.—Due to causes which can be only partially explained, the Pittsburgh Pirates won the inconsistent championship of the National League last season. The chart of the Pirates' record for the season is almost a perfect ladder of ups and downs on which they wandered erratically from second to sixth place and finished in a tie for third.

With the possible exception of the improvement that may be expected in several young ball players the Pirates will be no stronger when they start after the 1933 pennant than when they finished the last race. It does not follow, however, that the Pirates will do no better than they did last year. On the contrary, it is possible that they may do much better. In figuring the chances of the Pittsburgh team in the coming pennant race it is necessary to go back to last season and do all the figuring on what happened during that season.

For several years the Pirates have been strong potentially. When George Gibson, former Pirate catcher, was given the management of the club, much was expected from him and the team. After a bad early season start last year, the club fell to fifth place, then found itself and mounted up to second place, where it remained for three weeks. The team went to pieces and it was intimated that Gibson's inability to enforce the rules of training was responsible when the Pirates dropped down to sixth place in July.

At this point, Gibson resigned and Bill McKeechie was placed in command and almost immediately results began to show. The Pirates jumped into second place in two weeks. They slumped then and dropped down to fifth. McKeechie sent out a hurry call for Walter Schmidt, who joined the club, and the club played ball from then on. Schmidt held out for an increase in salary before the season started and when it was refused he went into temporary retirement. Gibson never made serious efforts to get him back; being content, apparently, with the work of Johnny Gooch, a fine young catcher, who lacked nothing but the very essential knowledge of the batters and the stability to hold down the young pitchers. If Bill McKeechie had been in charge of the team from the start, if Schmidt had worked in 100 games instead of only forty, and if Rebel Russell had been with the club before June, the Pirates might have won the pennant last year.

Russell, the old White Sox pitcher, who found out he could hit when he was about to pass out of the game, joined the team in June. He not only played right field acceptably but his tremendous batting was one of the big features of the season. Figuring now that McKeechie will be in charge when the next race starts, that the team will have the skilled head of Schmidt behind the bat and the stick of Russell at the bat all season, the chances of the Pirates are at least good. Eyebrows of some of the skeptic experts are lifted when the Pirates are held up as trouble-makers in the race, and they ask: "Where are their pitchers?" The Pirates are none too heavy in the box, but combinations can be worked out by an able manager that will overcome weakness in the box.

HARDING BACK AT HIS DESK

President Tackles Important Problems Following Vacation

Washington, April 9—Back in the White House after five weeks of complete rest in the south, President Harding was at his desk early this morning to tackle the large number of important problems that have piled up during his absence from Washington.

Before 10 o'clock the president was in conference with Secretary of State Hughes. Later he had appointments with Secretary Hoover and Senators Capper and Curtis. It is understood that Capper and Curtis will discuss the appointment of the dirt farmer representative on the federal reserve board.

Indications are that the sugar price problem will be the first to force itself upon the attention of the executive.

summer on her nursing, and the defense also brought out that she made between $50 and $60 on eleven stands of bees which they maintained last summer.

Mrs. Hughes also explained the deal in furniture buying in which she stated that the bed room furniture was purchased with money given the daughter by Mr. Hughes, and that it "belonged to the family" not to the defendant.

She stated that the daughter did not have any intentions of buying a Ford, and that Mr. Hughes had saved money for that purpose, and all of them had talked it over. When the plan did not materialize, Mrs. Hughes stated that the bed room suit was purchased with the Ford money.

Several other members of the family, including Mr. Hughes, testified for the defendant, and the defense also introduced twelve character witnesses who stated that the reputation of the defendant was beyond reproach during the period covered by the grand jury indictment.

FAMILY AFFAIR

She also stated that in September 1922, shortly before her dismissal from the drug store, she received $100 from John Russell of Danville, Ill., and that it was deposited in the Farmer's Trust company, together with $25 that she had saved in the dime trap method.

She then related about the dime trap saving method and stated that she had completed the full payment of two such accounts, which totalled $25 each. She accounted for the savings, stating on direct examination that "I put a few dimes in the traps with her and had it around the drug store, and her friends and acquaintances had contributed to them, because of the novelty and curiosity of the arrangement."

She also stated that the $200 transaction in which she purchased bonds was simply the withdrawal of the amount from her savings account in the trust company to the checking account, and that it was paid out to the agent selling the bonds which she bought.

Miss Hughes also explained that many mistakes had taken place in the handling of money by other clerks and that Mr. Hubbard had caused two mistakes of $10 that she could recall, and she explained these two transactions.

On cross examination, the state dwelt at length on the $100 transaction with the Russell person, whom she mentioned, and stated that he had sent the money to her in five twenty-dollar bills, which she deposited a few days later in the trust company.

She stated that she had carried on a correspondence with Russell for several years, and that he was in the navy and had spent a day here in 1920, and another day in 1921, in the fall of the year. She did not know where he is employed now, she stated.
